

The pharmaceutical industry in the United Kingdom is committed to patients by operating in a transparent manner to ensure the appropriate use of medicines and support the provision of high quality healthcare.

Open communication about interactions with individuals and healthcare organisations helps foster trust with patients, the NHS, and the public, as well as full transparency.

The disclosure of payments to individuals is an industry-led initiative, which Morningside Healthcare support and a full list of payments to individuals and healthcare organisations can be found below.

Where permission to disclose transfers of value is refused by individual health professionals, the transfer of value made to them is disclosed in an aggregated fashion.
